

THE AMIT DIFFERENCE

Building Israel. One Child at a Time.

AMIT students excel academically, achieving an average 85% bagrut matriculation rate, compared to the national rate of 70%.

Since 1925, children from diverse socioeconomic and ethnic backgrounds –70% of whom come from peripheral areas– have received equal access to high-quality education. Every day our students live their Jewish values, which is another integral part of AMIT's core philosophy.

An educational transformation is underway at AMIT schools in 29 cities throughout Israel.

Children aren't stuck learning in 1950s box-shaped classrooms. No longer is it a one-size-fits-all approach. AMIT's focus on innovatively designed classrooms along with its holistic approach is a game-changer for our children. AMIT strives to develop every child's innate abilities, preparing them to become productive members of society. Focusing on STEM – Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics – our students are getting the most advanced education and are primed to flourish in the 21st century.

95% of AMIT graduates

serve in the military, many in elite units, or perform national service. It's no wonder the AMIT network was selected by the Ministry of Education as the leading education network across all measurements in Israel including quality bagrut, pedagogical innovation, pluralism and bridging the gap, lowest dropout rate and integrity. In other words, AMIT and its students have a lot to be proud of!

What does this mean for Israel?

Each year thousands of students graduate from AMIT schools having completed some of the most advanced coursework, prepared to serve in the military and then continue their studies at university. Furthermore,

AMIT supports two youth villages that provide surrogate families for children from difficult family circumstances, and two pre-military junior colleges that prepare students better for service in the army. With AMIT's help and support, these children, who might otherwise have fallen through the cracks, are getting the attention and care they deserve.

Together, with your support,

we are leveling the playing field for children in Israel and creating opportunities for every AMIT student to succeed and lead a healthy and productive life.

Here's how:

- Providing cutting-edge education and academic excellence
- Closing the opportunity gap and helping each child reach their full potential
- Instilling Jewish values and Zionist ideals
