Dear Friend:-

By now you have already heard from our executive secretary in the office that I was obliged to postpone my trip. Naturally, this means that my coming to San Francisco has also to be postponed. Of course, it necessitates my being patient and await the time when I will have the great joy and pleasure of being with you and your family.

Due to my general condition, I have developed some throat trouble, and according to doctor's orders I must take a rest.

I can readily understand that you will be disappointed, but surely not any more so than I, for I had made all arrangements and was ready to leave on the day which I had specified. However, I hope that you will take it as I take it, that pleasures do not come to us so easily.

I am to see the doctor in about ten days. Perhaps at that time he will tell me that I may proceed according to my original plans. I assure you that as soon as I am permitted to I will start out and will of course let you know that I am coming.

I have not received mail from Palestine, but through a cable I learned that all of my dear ones are well. My sister has urged her son to return to America, but he will not do so. Evidently, he feels so thoroughly and so deeply rooted in the soil of our Homeland, that he cannot be persuaded to leave.

I hope that you had a very happy Yom Tov, and I extend to you my very warmest and sincerest good wishes for a Happy New Year.

Sincerely yours,

Bessie
